American Council for Health Care Reform

Updated: July 2025, Next Update: February 1, 2026

Summary

American Council for Health Care Reform are active conservative donors who oppose over-regulation of healthcare. They oppose socialized medicine schemes at both federal and state level. They respond generously to both social and economic issues and to traditional charities. These conservative donors are committed to repealing Obamacare—replacing it with great healthcare. They are part of the President's army and they pledge to have Trump's back—backing this pledge with an open pocketbook. Founded in 1983 with the encouragement of President Reagan, the American Council's first project was to help Reagan bury Sen. Ted Kennedy's Socialized Medicine legislation. ACHCR donors led the fight to defeat Hillarycare, with Clinton blaming the ACHCR direct mail campaign for defeat of her healthcare plan. These patriots contribute generously to elect Republicans to the House and Senate. They fund social and economic projects, plus traditional charities.
